DEATH OF GEN. BLAIR.

Gen. F. P. Blair died at his residence in St. Louis at 11 o'clock on Friday night, July 9th. Although the General has been sick for a long time without hope of recovery, still his death was sudden and unexpected. He had been out for a drive in the afternoon, and returned about 5 o'clock, and seemed to enjoy it much, and drove considerable time, but while walking in his room was attacked with dizziness and fell, striking his temple against a piece of furniture which rendered him insensible. Medical aid was immediately summoned and every effort made to restore him to consciousness, but without success, and at half past eleven he quietly passed away surrounded by all the members of his family.

SISTER JOHNSON AND THE MODOC INDIANS.

Sister Zelinda Johnson, one of the female missionaries of the Quapaw Special Indian Agency, arrived here last week from the Indian Nation, and is the guest of her friends, Mrs. Lamb & Dr. Lukens. The agency with which she is connected contains, within its borders, seven fractional tribes of Indians, among them the Peorias, Kaskaskias, Ottawas and the Modocs. The latter are from Southern Oregon, and in December next it will be two years since they were incorporated with the agency—some against their own wishes—for quite a number of the men arrived in the agency in chains.

Bogus Charley, Shack Nasty Jim and Steamboat Frank, whose names are yet familiar to our readers for their connection with the killing of Gen. Canby and Rev. Mr. Thomas, are the three highest Modocs in the agency. Of the three, Sister Johnson says, Steamboat Frank is the more docile in disposition and is the foremost to impress his people with the idea of Christianity. When the Modocs arrived in the territory they were not very favorably impressed with the whites and their religion, owing to their associations with the white people of Southern Oregon and Northern California, which was not such as to inspire a very exalted view of the Christianity of the whites. Since their arrival in the nation about fifteen of the Modocs have died. Among them was an old "medicine man," who ordered that his remains be buried on the funeral pile, the same that his predecessors were thus "cremated," as the custom of burning the dead is growing into disfavor even among the Modocs.

There are three mission schools and one day school in the agency, which are under the control of members of the Society of Friends. Hiram M. Jones, also a Friend, is the superintendent of the Quapaw Indian Agency, and everything is in a prosperous, peaceable condition.

THE MINISTERS AND TEMPERANCE.

Some of the advocates of total abstinence—among them a few of the clergymen—are just now working themselves up to "fever heat" on the license question. The position the SENTINEL has taken seems to be particularly offensive to them, and they spare neither time nor talent to speak unfavorably of ourself and our paper.

To hear these ministers it would seem as if temperance was the great crime of the age and the only sin the American people had need to be saved from. The many imperfections and sins which grow out of selfishness are lost sight of, and the ecclesiastical batteries are let loose against a few defenseless saloon keepers, and we are denounced because we do not join in the nonsensical crusade.

We are afraid that the zeal of these brethren is running away with their judgment, and that instead of helping the true cause of temperance in this county they are dealing it the death-blow. We repeat, what we have previously said in these columns, that the only true way to prevent excessive liquor-drinking is to persuade men not to do it. As soon as you attempt to compel grown men to adopt your views, you arouse a spirit of resentment, and your influence is gone. You cannot compel an adult free American citizen to stop eating and drinking anything that in his judgment may seem good for him, especially if the same is within easy reach. To shut up the saloons does not, in the least, lessen the amount of liquor used nor diminish the places where it may be had. We are credibly informed that there are a number of parties in different parts of the county, waiting for the County Court to shut down on all saloon licenses, in order to enable them to start sham drug stores, and thus sell the article without being obliged to pay county and state license. The idea of taking away the control of dramselling out of the hands of the County Court, and letting druggists and others sell it without restraint, savors too much of "swallowing the camel and choking on its tail." Away with such a double-dealing hypocritical course!

As regards the sermon that was preached against us and the SENTINEL at the New Point Basket Meeting by a certain young minister of this city, we would say that it was very unbecomingly. The young preacher will become wiser by experience as he grows older, and will find that he will not convert souls by abusing others, neither will he make men temperate by making unseemly and unkind remarks about the SENTINEL and ourselves. In view of his newness in the ministry as well as his verbiage in county matters, we heartily forgive him, but we wish him a little more modesty, discretion and wisdom.

THE ANON PART OF THE HOPPER QUESTION.

BY PHILADELPHIA.

EDITOR SENTINEL: Sir: I beg

leave to call up the all important hopper question. In fact, the motive "to do away with" this question was out of order, since the hoppers were unwilling "to be done away with." A second reason may be found in the fact that the question has been but partially developed. A third reason is the fact, that a great many newspaper articles and the common conversation of the unbelieving, although few persons in this class, are against the merits of this question. It is admitted, universally, that the hoppers have been here, as a punishment for sin; and further, by almost all, that God sent them. While many have gone on and looked out the benefits which may be derived from their visit, a few have stopped and have refused to receive any benefit whatever. This is doing a personal injustice, and "ought not to be."

Now, the position at which I wish to get may be set forth in very few words. It is this: Our heavenly guests have done us a greater good than injury. In the main, their visit has been to the edifying of the people. While the hoppers have devastated the grain fields, and agitated the thoughts of the people; they have led their minds over the almost entire realm of theology. They have led out the deeply hidden feelings of the heart to where they can be seen and admired by all. The finer feelings of the human heart are the most noble agents that shed an influence on the human character. That which leads them out, and builds them up, tends to develop the most noble part of man. The finer feelings of the heart, together with the language of inspiration, forms the only safeguards that run on the road that leads to true honor and success, the only authorized agent to get us right when we are wrong, the only authority in whose hands we can safely place the real estate of our immortal souls. Shall we cry out against the fire that purifies the character and makes good the words of our guide? Shall we seek to dishonor Him who sets our feet aright? Shall we cry out: Away with him who bridges the ravines and digs down the tall hills that bathe their frosty heads in the clouds of disappointment and distrust. All everywhere, are ready to clamor. No! Without the shadow of a doubt, this is the boldest down nation of the grasshoppers. They have fully accomplished their mission. They have led the mind over the almost entire realm of theology. They have purified, to a certain extent, the thoughts and intent of the heart. They have increased the faculty of sympathizing with and helping those who cannot help themselves.

Natural observation warrants the assertion, that if the wealth of Holt County were reduced one-half, the faculty for giving to the needy would be increased one-half; and vice versa. It is a fact, latent, but important that people get along best in the world when they get along best among themselves. A nation flourishes as she acts in harmony with herself. The grasshoppers have centralized the thoughts, and to a certain extent the actions. The people of Holt county ought to hallow, Amen! to the grasshopper. They ought to fling to those winds that fan the cheeks of the adjoining states, the motto, "E pluribus unum." There is indeed power in unity. The people of Holt county have talked enough good theology, if written in book form, to make up a volume not less than the Bible itself. Thoughts give shape to actions, the thoughts generated in the mind with which the hoppers have dealt, will fling for good, the actions of the body as well as active. A movement has been set up in the memory of the people, that shall stand as a reflector many days hence. When the heavens darken with the army of God, let the forces of men yield up their weapons and consent to dwell peacefully in the tents of that faith that receives all things directed by God, as for the best and for the good of them that love Him. It has been said that the farming is of all classes of men, the most independent. But this does not say that this class of men is independent. Indeed, the facts of the case are to the contrary. There seems to be no question about this. If so, it behooves them to so consider themselves, and likewise to shape their future actions. The Lord chasteneth whom he loveth. Now, as in every time of his correction by his God, is a climax in man's history. KINGS GROVE, July 3, 1876.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

A gentleman once advertised for a boy to assist him in his office, and nearly fifty applied for the place. Out of the whole number he in a short time chose one, and sent the rest away.

"I should like to know," said a friend, "on what ground you selected that boy. He had not a single recommendation with him."

"You are mistaken," said the gentleman; "he had a great many."

"He wiped his feet when he came in, and closed the door after him; showing that he was orderly and tidy."

"He gave up his seat instantly to that lame old man, showing that he was kind and thoughtful."

"He took off his cap when he came in, and answered my questions promptly and respectfully; showing that he was polite."

"He lifted up the book which I had purposely laid on the floor, and placed it on the table, while all the rest stepped over it, or thrust it aside; showing that he was careful."

"And he waited quietly for his turn, instead of pushing the others away; showing that he was modest."

"When I talked with him I noticed that his clothes were carefully brushed, his hair in nice order, and his teeth as white as milk. When he wrote his name, I observed that his finger-nails were clean, instead of being tipped with jet, like the handsome little fellows in the blue jacket."

"Don't you call these things letters of recommendation? I do; and what I can learn about a boy by using my eyes for ten minutes is worth more than all the fine letters he can bring me."

Forest City Speaks Out on the License Question.

FOREST CITY, MO., July 7, 1876.

EDITOR SENTINEL: I think it but just

that something should be said from our part of the county in reference to the liquor question. It has been stated that our County Court have made up their minds not to grant any more saloon licenses. I think a great many will agree with me in saying that our judges have no right to come to any such conclusion, especially before a majority of the tax-payers have had an opportunity to be heard from. It is the duty of every good citizen to obey the law. It is fair to suppose, that the supreme power, composed of representative electors of the people, will enact wise statutes, but whether we think they are the best that could be made, or otherwise, it is our duty to comply with their requirements. It is certainly the duty of our County Court after parties asking for a license have complied with the law, and have a majority of the tax-payers on their petition, to grant such license. It is not for any individual to be the judge of the wrongfulness of the law, and refuse submission because it does not meet his approval. When a law proves to be unwise, inexpedient or unjust, there is a legal, and proper way to change it. When the people are convinced that a change is desirable, and that they do not want saloons, it will be legally effected, he should not aim to disturb the rights of any one. If a saloon keeper violates no law, but perforce all his obligations, pays his taxes, and deposits himself as a good citizen, the County Court has no first right to restrain him in his business, which is acknowledged by the law of our country as a legitimate one. Each may truly believe he is right, but who shall be umpire to decide? Men must obey the law, and not interfere with the rights of others.

If our ministers would try and change the minds of men, especially the young men, to believe that the practice of drinking whiskey is wrong, and not try and array one set of men in a community against another, by stirring up strife, and discord among them, they would be doing more good. I think by the proper teachings that we can do more with the minds of men, than in any other way. I believe that God has given us all things for some good and wise purpose, even alcohol. We are responsible to God for the use or abuse of things, and if we violate the laws of health by intemperance, eating, drinking, working or sleeping, disease which is the penalty will soon overtake us.

I will say to my "tax paying" friend of Whig Valley, that there are some respectable druggists in Holt county, who do not care to sell one drop of liquor but are compelled to keep it for their strong-minded temperance friends, when they get down upon a sick bed, and I have known cases when they would take it very willingly under the plea of sickness, and also would be the first to go before the Grand Jury to inform on him. And I will say here that this State had one of the strongest druggist liquor laws that could have been passed. Maine, with all her stringent liquor laws, never passed one to deter the sick and dying from getting a few drops of liquor, perhaps to keep them from dying or sparing their lives for a few hours. This law, at the last session of our Legislature, was found to be a bad one, and was repealed.

Now, Mr. Editor, I will mention here, that I am as much opposed to the use of liquor as a beverage as any one, and I would be very well pleased if there was not one drop manufactured; but I know that to be an impossibility. I will say, in conclusion, that if a great many of those that are so eager in the cause of temperance here, would attend to their own business, as well as they do to that of their neighbors, they would accomplish a great deal more good, and I think it would be the same throughout the county.

THE GREAT BROOKLYN SCANDAL CASE.

Of Tilton vs Beecher, closed on Friday July 3d, after being actually in court nearly six months. The jury was out nearly eight days and finally reported that they could not agree on a unanimous verdict. Some of the jurors stated that fifty-two ballots were taken with varying counts. One of the first stood eleven for acquittal and one for conviction. On the fifty-second and last ballot, the vote stood nine for Beecher and three for Tilton. Conscious of his innocence, and undisturbed by the devilish efforts of his lying and vile calumniators, who are seeking to destroy his character and put an end to his usefulness, Mr. Beecher has entered again upon the labors of his pastorate with renewed energy. The infamous slander crew, Tilton, Moulton, Woodhull and their licentious abettors in this conspiracy to break down a good and a great man, are only to be remembered with loathing and abhorrence by the people, while Henry Ward Beecher will grow in the esteem and grace of God and his fellow-men, with increasing usefulness to the generation he is serving.

As a token of their unswerving fidelity in the integrity and usefulness of their pastor, the Plymouth congregation have raised Mr. Beecher's salary from $20,000 to $100,000 a year. The members of the Plymouth Church, 4000 in number, were staunch believers in the innocence of their pastor, and the voting of the addition to the salary is a magnificent endorsement.

Reports from Johnson county and other sections recently visited by the grasshoppers state that in most cases the corn destroyed by the little pests was replanted, and is now about two feet high, and promises a fine yield. If the season continues favorable the farmers of that section will not suffer much after all.—St. Louis Journal.

THE STATE NORMAL SCHOOL AT KIRKSVILLE.

Written for the Holt County Sentinel.

This school was organized as a State Institution in 1870, and has been carried on successfully as such since that time. It is located at Kirksville, Mo., a town every way suited to such an institution. Surrounded by all the facilities that characterize a western town, she stands the Queen City of North-east Missouri from a commercial, social and literary basis. Her business men are live and energetic, and seem ever determined to supply the wants and demands of her citizens and the students of the school. The citizens are intelligent and moral, and do everything possible to sustain and promote the interest of the institution, for they feel that upon its success depends, in a great measure, the prosperity of the town. Since the school has been no license has been granted to sell liquor, and it is a rare thing to see a man intoxicated. The city is so located and surrounded as to make it one of the most desirable places in the state to attend school. Everything is at hand to insure good health. There has been but three students, attending from a distance, that have died since the school was organized. The facilities for traveling to, from and in the city are all that could be expected.

The school is one of the most successful institutions in the state. In proof of her success: She can show the most flattering results. There has been enrolled 709 students this year, and the work has been more extensive and thorough than ever before. Every portion of the state is represented on her enrollment list; and, with the exception of a few cases, none but practical and thorough-going ladies and gentlemen have entered their names there. The school is very popular with and is appreciated by our great educators, and by the masses, as far as known by them. Normal students are, generally recognized as superior teachers and are always in demand. Their work is, in most cases, more thorough, more effective and more in accordance with the true principles of teaching. The reputation of this institution, stands highest in the west—first and foremost in the State of Missouri.

The course of instruction does not only give the student a thorough knowledge in the sciences and arts, but also prepares him for the practical walks of life; prepares him to grapple with the living actions of real existence. With in her walls he not only experiences the trials and pleasures of school life, but meets with the various phases of practical life. A thorough drill is given in the "Professional Course" which prepares the teacher for his work. The other courses of science and art are extensive and practical. The school has three libraries—General, Professional and Reference—which are free to the students; also there has been arranged a reading room, on the tables of which, are to be found all the leading educational periodicals, monthlies, and weeklies of the United States, and the leading dailies, and all the principal papers of the State of Missouri. The apparatus is limited, but will be increased as the school demands. Specimens are very rapidly collected and placed in the museum. All the practical experiments of the sciences are performed by students.

The school supports four live literary societies, viz.: Newtonian, Excelsior, Philomathean and Nota Bene, which meet on Friday evening of each week, and in which the exercises of literary life are performed. Boarding is secured in private families, and the students are left free to select their own boarding places. Board, including nearly furnished room, light and fuel cost from $3 to $3.50 per week—generally $3.25.

Expenses for books, in accordance with the attainments of the student and the amount of general reading done. Other expenses according to the taste and means of the pupil. Self-boarding about $1.50 per week. There is a general variety of boarding houses, and can secure an excellent home. Everything is prepared to meet the wants of the moral natures of students. There are six or seven organized churches which have religious and Sunday school exercises each Sabbath. Lazy, indolent students and those addicted to bad habits are either reformed or sent home.

Holt county has been represented in this school each year since its organization as a state institution. The students attending from here this year were Messrs. S. F. Davidson, D. S. and H. T. Alkire, J. L. Minton and C. W. Thomas, of which three, Messrs. Davidson, Minton and H. T. Alkire, graduated in the Two Year's Course, and one, Mr. Thomas, in the Four Year's Course. We understand that this county will have a greater number there the coming year than before. We know of five who are expected to attend.

The attendance of the school has been as follows: First year, 140; second year, 203; third year, 263; fourth year, 321; fifth year, 434; sixth year, 475; seventh year, 608; eighth year, 709.

So great has been the attendance that the sub-normals had to be suspended. The graduating classes for 1875 numbered as follows: The two year's class, forty-two; the three year's class, eighteen, and the four year's class, twelve, of which we give below the names and addresses as this class is recognized as the graduating class, and receives the degree of Bachelor of Arts and Philosophic Didactics:

Bradley, J. R., Fulton Callaway county, Mo.
Burton, Jennie, Kirksville, Adair county, Mo.
Harding, R. T., Renie, Randolph county, Mo.
Lee, R. S., Kirksville, Adair county, Mo.

Jamison, A. H., Carrington, Ralls county, Mo.
McHall, J. S., Lima, Adams county, Ill.
McGhee, J. S., Patterson, Wayne county, Mo.
Orr, A. R., Kirksville, Adair county, Mo.
Friman, F. P., Edina, Knox county, Mo.
Rowe, Lizzie, Keokuk, Lee county, Ia.
Thomas, C. W., Forest City, Holt county, Mo.
Westcott, Alta, Kirksville, Adair county, Mo.

Members of the faculty for 1875-6 are as follows:
J. Baldwin, President—Science of Education and Art of Teaching.
W. P. Nason, Vice-President—English Language and Literature, and History.
J. S. Potter—Pure and Applied Mathematics.
C. H. Dutcher—Geology, Zoology, Chemistry and Civil Government.
Miss M. T. Henderson, Preceptor—Latin, Botany, Physical Geography and Etymology.
H. F. Williams—Vocal Music, American Literature and Physiology.
Miss Emmir Thompson—Drawing, Penmanship and Geography.
J. U. Barnard—Reading, Logic and Book-keeping.
Assistant Teachers—Normal students.

The school is increasing in facilities, interest and advantage each year, and young men and women expecting to attend school will do well to examine this one before going elsewhere.

MURDER AND ATTEMPTED ROBBERY.

A Train on the Vandallia Railroad Boarded by Robbers.

On Friday the 9th of July a most dastardly and bold attempt was made to rob the Adams Express car on the night train running from St. Louis to Terre Haute. The facts as reported to the St. Louis Journal are as follows: Passenger train No. 1, Vandallia Line, in charge of conductor Joe Friley, left this city at 7:10 last evening, for the east. Nothing unusual transpired until about 2 o'clock this morning when the train had reached Loug Point, a water tank station between Ellingham and Terre Haute, where it was the custom to stop for water. The fireman had taken position on the coal-car at the tender, and was adjusting the connecting pipe between the tank and the reservoir of the tender. The engineer, Milo Eames, was on the ground, oiling the engine, as was his practice at this station. Just as Eames had finished one side of the engine, and was passing in front of the cow-catcher to the oil other, he was

SUDDENLY CONFRONTED BY TWO MEN, armed with revolvers, and commanded to halt. The engineer, as was his practice at this station, just as Eames had finished one side of the engine, and was passing in front of the cow-catcher to the oil other, he was

The two men who had first boarded the engine were here re-inforced by others, who had been in waiting at the spot where the stop was made in obedience to a preconcerted plan. The robbers fired through the doors of the car, into the windows and all other places where they thought it possible to wound the plucky messenger and bring about a surrender, but without avail. Up to this time the passengers were ignorant of the condition of affairs but when the report of the pistol reached their ears, they at once divined the trouble. A company was hurriedly organized and started up the track for the scene. On their approach the robbers became alarmed, and fled to the woods leaving the express messenger master of the situation.

The car of the American Merchants' Express Company was not detached from the train, probably through an oversight of the man detained by the robbers to attend to that part of the job. It was in charge of H. P. Miller, of Indianapolis.

The above, in brief, are substantially the facts connected with this terrible outrage. The Superintendent of the Vandallia Road offers a reward of $1,000 each for the capture of the monsters engaged in this matter, and we hope to be able to announce in our next edition that they have been caught.

The heroic conduct of the engineer, Eames, is deserving of more praise than we feel competent to bestow. Nothing better can be said of him than that he died rather than violate the confidence of his employers. Mr. Burke, the express messenger also bore himself like a brave, honest man, and will doubtless be a favorite with his company hereafter.

This afternoon Maj. Simpson, General Superintendent of the Vandallia road, received a dispatch stating that three men have been arrested. One was known to have been engaged in the murder. The Vandallia Company have offered a reward of $1,000 for each man connected with the affair. The city council of Casey have offered $150, and this sum is expected to be largely increased by the county and State authorities. Engineer Eames was a native of Washington, Mass., where he has two brothers. He has another brother who is a conductor on the Missouri Pacific.
